The KING's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS it is highly important that special Precautions should be taken to prevent any Kind of Corn, Meal or Flour, of which the Exportation from this Kingdom may be permitted, from falling into the Hands of the Enemy, and being made Use of for the Support and Sustainance of the Forces employed by Sea and Land against His Majesty or His Allies; His Majesty, having taken the same into Consideration, is pleased, by and with the Advice of His Privy Council, to order, as it is hereby ordered, that no Ship or Vessel, laden with any Sort of Corn, Meal or Flour, which shall be exportable pursuant to the Provisions of an Act, passed in the Thirty-first Year of His present Majesty's Reign, intituled, "An Act for regulating the Importation and Exportation of Corn, and the Payment of the Duty on Foreign Corn imported, and of the Bounty on British Corn exported," and of an Act passed in the last Session of Parliament for amending the said Act, shall be permitted to clear out from any Port of this Kingdom, until the Merchant Exporter of such Corn, Meal or Flour, shall have made Oath of the true Destination of the same to the Places for which such Corn, Meal or Flour shall be entered Outwards, before the Entry shall be made, and shall also, together with Two sufficient Sureties, of which the Master of such Ship or Vessel shall be One, have entered into Bond, in treble the Value of such Corn, Meal or Flour, with Condition to carry the same to His Majesty's Kingdom of Ireland, or to the Islands

And such Bond shall be discharged by a Certificate, in like Manner as is directed with respect to Bonds entered into for the due Exportation of Corn and other Articles exported on Bounty, in pursuance of the before mentioned Act, passed in the Thirty-first Year of His present Majesty's Reign; and such Bond shall not be cancelled or delivered up but upon Production of such Certificate.

Provided always, that such Bond shall not be required with respect to any Ship or Vessel having on board no greater Quantity of any Corn, Meal or Flour, than shall be necessary to be carried in such Ship or Vessel on her Voyage, Out and Home, for the Sustainance, Diet, Support, and Use of the Commander, Master, Mariners, Passengers and others, or of the Cattle, Live Stock, or other Animals on board of such Ship or Vessel.

THE Dispatch, of which the following is an Extract, was this Morning received at the Office of the Right Honorable Henry Dundas, His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department.

S I R, Toulon, October 3, 1793.

IN my Dispatch of the 24th of September I had the Honor to inform you, that the Enemy had been more active than previous to that Period; they occasionally cannonaded our different Posts, and had approached Bodies of Men to various Points, to attract our Attention. On the 30th of September, at Night, they entered upon a daring and desperate Project, that met with a most unaccountable Success, which fortunately was not of long Duration.

The Post of Faron being the Point at which the Enemy determined to make an Attempt to render themselves Masters of Toulon, they carried their Design into Execution on the Night of the 30th of September. The Piquet of Sixty Men, being driven from the Pas de la Masque about Day-break, retired to the Redoubt of Faron, which they found abandoned by the Spanish Garrison that had been placed in it. The Enemy some Time after took Possession of the Redoubt, and of the whole Summit of this almost inaccessible Mountain. By the Possession of the Redoubt of Faron their Communication was open with La Valette, and with La Garde, where the Head Quarters of General Gardane are established; from both which Places they received considerable Reinforcements. The Fort of Faron, which is below the Redoubt, having made the Signal of being pressed by the Enemy, and in Want of immediate Succour, Governor Elphinstone added Captain Torriano, with Ninety-two Men of the 30th Regiment, to the Garrison of that Post.

At about Seven o'Clock in the Morning of the 1st of October, the Report came to Toulon, that the Enemy were in Possession of the whole Summit of the Mountain of Faron. The absolute Necessity of an immediate Attack of this Post being obvious, the most practicable Means of regaining the Summit of the Mountain, in the Face of an Enemy, who were hourly receiving Reinforcements, and who were prepared for their Defence, became the only Subject of Discussion. Admiral Gravina, Brigadier-General Squierdo of the Spanish Troops, Brigadier-General Prince de Pignatelli commanding the Neapolitan Troops, Lieutenant-Colonel Chevalier de Revel, Governors Goodall, Elphinstone and myself, having assembled at the Government House, and having consulted intelligent Persons acquainted with the possible Accesses to the Mountain on the Side of Toulon, it was determined to make the Attempt on the Western Side. The Troops of the Garrison having been assembled on the Parade during the Time of our Deliberation, I detached Captain Beresford of the 69th Regiment, with Fifty Men, to Fort Faron, to co-operate under the Command of Governor Elphinstone, in case any Opportunity should offer of making a Diversion on the Side of the Redoubt of Faron, in Favour of our main Attack, if we should be so fortunate as to reach the Summit of the Mountain, which is 1718 Feet above the Level of the Sea.

The British Troops upon Guard at the Gate of the Town having been relieved, I was enabled to collect 250 British Rank and File, to which I added 140 Chasseurs and 163 Grenadiers of the Piedmontese Troops, (the Remainder being dispersed in distant Posts.) This Corps composed the Column under my Command, destined to ascend the Face of the Mountain from the Fort of Grand St. Antoine. (I had also ordered 500 Neapolitan Troops of the Regiment de Bourgogne to join my Column; but, from the Difference of Language, some Mistake occurred in the Delivery of the Orders, and those Troops did not join me.) The Column of Admiral Gravina, which took it's Route towards the Vallon de Valbourdin to ascend by that Pass, was composed of Two Companies of Piedmontese Chasseurs, 183 Spanish Rank and File, 400 Neapolitan Grenadiers, and a Detachment of 100 Men of the Regiment de Bourgogne; Brigadier-Generals Squierdo and Pignatelli went with this Column. The Two Columns marched from Toulon at Eight o'Clock. At the Redoubt of Grand St. Antoine I formed the Troops under my immediate Command in alternate Hundreds of British and Piedmontese, directing them to keep in small Platoons, as nearly in a Line as possible during their Ascent, and to form to the first Party that should arrive at the Summit. An advanced Party of 200 of the Enemy appeared at the Top of the Mountain, and gave their Fire at a great Distance, retiring immediately, and allowing the Troops to gain the Height with no other Obstacle than that which the rugged and almost perpendicular Acclivity presented; the Labour and Fatigue of the Ascent being considerably increased by the great Heat of the Day. The Column of General Gravina gained the Top of the Mountain soon after us, without having met with any Resistance. Captain Moncrief, who led the Right Division of my Column, pushed across the Mountain, and possessed himself of the Pas de la Masque, which had had been abandoned by the Enemy. The Top of the Mountain of Faron is intersected by a Succession of transversal Heights, of steep Ascent from the West, and rising successively to the Easternmost Extremity of the Mountain, where the Redoubt of Faron is placed. We found the Enemy drawn up on the Front of this last Ridge. The Rock to the North, on the Right of the Position taken by the Enemy, ends in a Precipice above the Vallon de Favieres; the Ground which lay between the Right of the Enemy and the Column under my Command is a low Ridge, forming the narrow Head of a deep Valley, which descends to the Southward, widening itself by a gradual Turn to the Eastward, so as to form a steep Side to the Left Flank of the Enemy's Position, and ending on the flat Summit of an interior Ridge of the Mountain, directly above the Town of Toulon.

The Enemy were formed in a Line on the Front of the Eminence, and within Musket Shot of our Position: In Front of the Right of the Enemy's principal Line, and on the Crest of the Ridge which forms the Head of the Valley, they had an Advanced Guard of about Fifty Men; in the Rear of their Right Flank, which did not reach up to the Precipice, a Body of about 200 Men were placed en Echelon; a considerable Body was placed en Potence behind the Left of their Line; and in Front of their Left Flank was placed an Advanced Guard, similar to that on the Right; in the Rear, half Way between the Redoubt and the first Line, a strong Column was placed in Reserve; and the Parapet of the Redoubt was lined with Men. The Post of the Enemy commanded very considerably every Part of the Position which we were obliged to occupy. The Left Column, under my Command, arrived first in Presence of the Enemy. I placed the greatest Part of it, under Cover of a rising Ground, behind the narrow Crest of the Valley over which I was to pass, when the Attack should be made. The Column of General Gravina being soon after also in Presence of the Enemy, he formed his Line on an Height, which extended beyond the Left of the Enemy's Position, and was separated from the Height on which I had taken Post by a Branch of the great Valley, running to the Westward, and forming a Dip between the Posts occupied by our respective Divisions. I immediately sent Notice of our being in Presence of the Enemy (by an Officer, who was obliged to make a considerable Circuit) to Governor Elphinstone, who was at Fort Faron.

A brisk Fire, begun by the Advanced Posts of the Enemy, took Place at this Time between them and General Gravina's Line, and a Fire also commenced on the Side of Fort Faron by the Corps under the Command of Colonel del Porto, against the Potence (or Return Line) of the Enemy's Position, which could not, however, at that Time, produce it's Effect, and was soon after very judiciously discontinued. As I could plainly perceive from the Post I occupied that no Impression could be made from a Fire across the deep Part of the Valley, and that there was a Defect in the Disposition of the Enemy's Left, I went to the Right, to communicate my Observations to General Gravina; and it was then agreed that the Corps under the Command of that General should descend, by it's Right, into the Valley, and march, under Cover of the Ascent on the Left of the Enemy, to attack them on that Flank, which they had injudiciously placed upon the extreme Summit of the Hill, so as not to have the Command of the whole Descent, as they might have had, by placing themselves a little below the Brow. It was agreed also, that the Left Column, under my Command, should endeavour to attract the Attention of the Enemy during this Movement, and that when General Gravina should have attained a certain Point, I should move forward, and the general Attack be made. On my Return to the Left (General Gravina having already began his Movement) I produced my whole Force to the View of the Enemy. The Operation answered to our utmost Wish. The Enemy marched Reinforcements to the Right of their Line, and appeared in Expectation of an immediate Attack from my Column: During this Period General Gravina proceeded down the Valley, and came unperceived up the Side of the Hill occupied by the Enemy; the Line of March round this steep and rocky Ascent being explored, with infinite Intrepidity and Judgment, by Serjeant Moreno of the Spanish Marines, and Three Soldiers of his Corps, to within Pistol Shot of the Enemy's Line. The whole Crest of the Mountain of Faron being a hard grey Rock, without Vegetation, and in some Parts broken into sharp and loose Pieces, which render walking very difficult, the March of General Gravina's Column was necessarily slow: As soon as he had got to the Point agreed upon, the British of my Column, led by Captain Moncrief of the 11th Regiment, and preceded by Thomas Graham, Esq; of Balgeroon, (a Gentleman of independent Fortune, who was attracted to Toulon by the extraordinary Event of it's being in our Possession, to whose Abilities on many Occasions here, and to whose distinguished and exemplary Gallantry on this Occasion the Service has been infinitely indebted) and the Piedmontese Chasseurs, led by Lieutenant-Colonel the Chevalier de Revel, advanced in Two Columns, supported by the Piedmontese Grenadiers, under Colonel the Comte de Forax, the Ridge being too narrow to admit of a Line. A very heavy Fire from the greatest Part of the Enemy's Line checked our Progress for a short Period at somewhat less than Half the Way, between the Ground from which we had advanced and the Enemy's Post. Here a continued Fire was kept up between the Enemy and the British and Piedmontese Troops, under every Disadvantage on our Part of a most exposed and confined Situation. The Column of General Gravina in the mean Time advanced in excellent Order, under Cover of the Hill; the Two Companies of Piedmontese Chasseurs, with the Neapolitan Grenadiers and Spanish Troops, advancing with a regular Progress, and well-supported Fire, towards the Left of the Enemy's Line, whilst the Detachment from Fort Faron, under Colonel Comte del Porto, recommenced their Attack, which they made a real one, instead of a mere Diversion, as at first intended. At this Instant the advanced Part of General Gravina's Column having nearly gained the Brow of the Hill, I perceived the Left of the Enemy's Line begin to waver, and crowd together, and ordered the British and Piedmontese under my Command to rush forward, which they did with the utmost Spirit and Alacrity, under an heavy and galling Fire of the Enemy, which, however, was of very short Duration, for the whole Line of the Enemy, with their different Corps of Reserve, (400 of their Troops having abandoned the Redoubt before the Conclusion of the Action) were thrown into Confusion, and the Rout became general; several were killed in the Pursuit, but a very considerable Number indeed were destroyed by pressing each other over the Precipice in their Flight; 75 of their Dead were collected, without descending into the Valley to which they fell from the Precipice: An Officer and 60 Prisoners were taken; and, by Accounts counts since received from Deserters, but one Quarter of their original Number have rejoined their Forces. The most moderate Calculation upon the Accounts of the Prisoners and Deserters, states their Numbers to have been from 1800 to 2000 Men, all Troops of the Line; and the Flower of La Bar's Army. Our Loss has been inconsiderable, compared with the Difficulty and Hazard of the Enterprize: I have to regret the Loss of Lieutenant the Chevalier Fabar, of the Piedmontese Chasseurs, a gallant, active and intelligent young Officer, who was killed at the Commencement of the first Attack made by my Column. The whole Army heard with Regret that General Gravina, in the Course of his able and spirited Exertions at the Head of the Neapolitan Grenadiers, received a Wound in the Leg, which obliged him to retire from the Field; I am happy, however, to add, that the Wound is not likely to be attended with any serious Consequences: His Place was ably supplied by the Courage and Conduct of Brigadier-General Chevalier Squierdo and Prince Pignatelli. I inclose a List of the Killed and Wounded of the different Nations; the chief Loss has fallen upon the Column under my Command, from the very exposed Situation in which the Attack was necessarily made, and where the British and Piedmontese Troops justified the mutual Confidence which each seemed to repose in the steady Support of the other. Indeed, Sir, I should do Injustice were I to particularize any Corps or any Nation, where all were so equally meritorious, not only in the intrepid Firmness with which the Whole of this brave Body of Men encountered the Dangers of a difficult and almost desperate Attempt, but for the patient Fortitude, also, with which they bore Hunger, Thirst and Fatigue, the Troops having received only a small Portion of Bread at the Time they marched from out of the Town, and being (from the Want of necessary Supplies at Toulon) without Canteens, no Officer or Soldier had a Drop of Water to refresh him during the Space of Twelve Hours, in a laborious March up Precipices supposed inaccessible, and over rugged Rocks, exposed to the Heat of a burning Sun, reflected strongly by the Nature of the Ground. I can only say, that the mutual Esteem and Applause, which the Troops of the different Nations so strongly manifest towards each other, is the most honorable Panegyrick that can be bestowed upon them.

I have the Honor to be, with great Respect,

S I R,

Your most obedient

And most humble Servant,

MULGRAVE,

Acting Brigadier-General.

MULGRAVE, Act. Brig. Gen.

I enclose a Copy of the Account I received from Governor Elphinstone of the Attack made to the Eastward from Fort Faron.

October 6.

Last Night a Reinforcement of 355 Piedmontese Troops arrived from Sardinia. The Second Division of Neapolitan Troops, consisting of 2000 Men, is arrived in the Harbour.

MULGRAVE, Act. Brig. Gen.

La Mague, October 4, 1793.

MY LORD,

IN Conformity to the Plan fixed on for our joint Operations, I went up to Fort Faron, and, by shewing the Head of different Columns of the Troops, kept the Enemy constantly jealous of an immediate Attack on the Right, and kept up a well-directed Fire from Three Twelve-Pounders on the Redoubt: But it was not only my own Opinion but that of all the Officers commanding Corps, that a direct Attack in a Work so situated and full of Men was impracticable; I therefore ordered Four Parties, of Sixty Men each, to be ready to climb up the Hill the Moment General Gravina and your Lordship should advance on the Top of the Mountain, and a Column of Two Hundred to follow and support them, without firing until they should arrive at the Summit, and a Party to turn the Hill lower down on the Right, to cut off or impede the Retreat, and all the Guns of the Fort to fire about Fifty Yards in Front of the Troops,

Troops, and to stop the Moment I should make a Signal. This Plan was admirably executed, and, I hope, produced the best Effect; Conde del Peresta, Colonel of the Regiment of Majorca, distinguished himself much in conducting the Attack. Captains Torriano of the 30th and Beresford of the 59th had infinite Merit for the intrepid Manner they led their Men up an almost inaccessible Mountain, under a severe Fire. The Commandant of the Neapolitan Troops, and Major Heustein of the Regiment of Royal Louis, were not less distinguished on this Occasion, and the Whole behaved with exemplary Firmness. Lieutenant Alexander of the Navy and Captain Dexter of the Marines performed most material Services by the well-directed Fire from Guns on the Enemy's Troops and Works.

I have the Honor to be
Your Lordship's, &c. &c. &c.
G. K. ELPHINSTONE.

Whitehall, November 15.

BY Letters from Vice-Admiral Lord Hood and Brigadier-General Lord Mulgrave to Mr. Secretary Dundas, dated Toulon, the 24th and 27th of last Month, brought by Captain Cook of the Royal Navy, it appears, that Lieutenant-General O'Hara, appointed by His Majesty Governor of that Garrison and it's Dependencies, had arrived on the last mentioned Day from Gibraltar. It also appears that the First Battalion of the Royals, the 18th Regiment, and a Battalion of the Royal Artillery, had arrived at Toulon with General O'Hara; and that no Event of Consequence had occurred. That the Enemy continued to work at some Distance from Toulon, but that they had not opened any new Batteries, excepting a small one of Two Eight-Pounders and a Mortar above Fort Pomet; which, it was expected, would be silenced by some heavy Guns which were to be brought against it.

That Intelligence had been received of the Capture of Lyons, from which it was expected that the Enemy would receive considerable Reinforcements.
