SATURDAY, JUNE 18, 1814.

Foreign-Office, June 17, 1814.

THIS day Lord Viscount Castlereagh, His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, exchanged with the Comte de la Chatre, duly authorised for that purpose by His Most Christian Majesty, His Royal Highness the Prince Regent's act of Ratification on the part of His Majesty, of the Treaty of Peace, and of the additional articles thereunto annexed, concluded between His Majesty and His Most Christian Majesty, at Paris, on the 30th ultimo, against copies of the same duly ratified by His Most Christian Majesty Louis XVIII.

By His Royal Highness the PRINCE of WALES, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, in the Name and on the Behalf of His Majesty,

A PROCLAMATION.

GEORGE, P. R.

WHEREAS a Definitive Treaty of Peace and Friendship between His Majesty and His Most Christian Majesty hath been concluded at Paris on the thirtieth day of May last; in conformity therewith, We have thought fit, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, hereby to command, that the same be published throughout all

His Majesty's dominions; and We do declare to all His Majesty's loving subjects Our will and pleasure, that the said Treaty of Peace and Friendship be observed inviolably, as well by sea as land, and in all places whatsoever; strictly charging and commanding all His Majesty's loving subjects to take notice hereof, and to conform themselves thereunto accordingly.

Given at the Court at Carlton-House, the seventeenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and fourteen, and in the fifty-fourth year of His Majesty's reign.

GOD save the KING.

By His Royal Highness the PRINCE of WALES, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, in the Name and on the Behalf of His Majesty,

A PROCLAMATION,

For a Public Thanksgiving.

GEORGE, P. R.

WHEREAS it has pleased Almighty God, in His great goodness, to put an end to the long, extended, and bloody warfare in which We were engaged against France and her Allies; We, therefore, adoring the Divine goodness, and duly considering, that the great and public blessings of peace do call for public and solemn acknowledgments, have thought fit, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, and by and with the advice of His Majesty's Privy Council, to issue this Proclamation, hereby appointing and commanding, that a General Thanksgiving to Almighty God for these His mercies, be observed throughout those parts of the United Kingdom called England and Ireland, on Thursday the seventh day of July next; and for the better and more devout solemnization of the same, We have given directions to the Most Reverend the Archbishops, and the Right Reverend the Bishops of England, to compose a Form of Prayer, suitable to this occasion, to be used in all churches and chapels, and other places of public worship, and to take care for the timely dispersing of the same throughout their respective dioceses; and We do strictly charge and command, that the said public Day of Thanksgiving be religiously observed by all His Majesty's loving subjects, as they tender the favour of Almighty God, and upon pain of suffering such punishment as may be justly inflicted upon all such as shall contemn or neglect the same.

Given at the Court at Carlton-House, the seventeenth day of June, in the year of Our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fourteen, in the fifty-fourth year of His Majesty's reign.

GOD save the KING.

By His Royal Highness the PRINCE of WALES, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, in the Name and on the Behalf of His Majesty,

A PROCLAMATION,

For a Public Thanksgiving.

GEORGE, P. R.

WHEREAS it has pleased Almighty God, in His great goodness, to put an end to the long, extended, and bloody warfare in which We were engaged against France and her Allies; We, therefore, adoring the Divine goodness, and duly considering, that the great and public blessings of peace do call for public and solemn acknowledgments, have thought fit, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, and by and with the advice of His Majesty's Privy Council, to issue this Proclamation, hereby appointing and commanding, that a General Thanksgiving to Almighty God for these His mercies, be observed throughout that part of the United Kingdom called Scotland, upon Thursday the seventh day of July next; and We do strictly charge and command, that the said public Thanksgiving be reverently and decently observed by all His Majesty's loving subjects in Scotland, on the said seventh day of July next, as they tender the favour of Almighty God, and would avoid His wrath and indignation, and upon pain of such punishment as may be justly inflicted on all such as contemn or neglect the performance of so religious a duty: Our will and pleasure is, therefore, and We charge, that this Our Proclamation seen, ye pass to the Market-Cross of Edinburgh, and all other places needful, and there, in His Majesty's name and authority, make publication thereof, that none pretend ignorance: and Our will and pleasure is, that His Majesty's Solicitor do cause printed copies hereof to be sent to the Sheriffs of the several shires, Stewarts of stewartries, and Bailiffs of regalities, and their Clerks, whom We ordain to see the same published; and We appoint them to send copies thereof to the several parish churches within their bounds, that, upon the Lord's Day immediately preceding the day above-mentioned, the same may be published and read from the pulpits immediately after Divine Service.

Given at the Court at Carlton-House, the seventeenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and fourteen, in the fifty-fourth year of His Majesty's reign.

GOD save the KING.

His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT in Council.

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars of the University of Oxford, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with renewed assurances of attachment to His Majesty, and to your Royal Highness's person, family and government.

It is with equal pride and pleasure that we hail your Royal Highness's arrival at this seat of religion and learning, adorned by so many monuments of royal munificence, enriched by your Royal Highness with additional treasures of antient literature, and honoured by still more recent marks of your Royal countenance and protection.

These sentiments we should at all times and under any circumstances have been happy to be permitted to express to your Royal Highness in this place. Our satisfaction on being so permitted at this moment is greatly enhanced by the presence of your Royal Highness's Imperial and Royal guests. It is in itself an unprecedented honour, and the occasion must be for ever memorable. It recalls to us that union of counsels and that co-operation in arms which, under the favour of Providence, have arrested the progress of lawless and inordinate ambition; and, by the re-establishment of legitimate authority,—the only sure foundation for the permanence of those blessings, have restored peace to this country, and independence to Europe.

For this signal instance of Divine protection, we beg leave to assure your Royal Highness that our gratitude shall be manifested by the pursuit of those studies and the cultivation of those arts and sciences, by which peace is best adorned and prolonged. It shall be our constant endeavour to inform and improve the youth committed to our care; and to establish in their minds, on the sure basis of reason and revelation, the sacred duties of public and private life. It is thus that we hope to train up the rising generation in the principles of inviolable loyalty to the throne, and of affectionate veneration for that happy constitution which has been our safe-guard in this long season of trial; the admiration of other nations, the theme of their gratitude, and the object of their imitation.

That your Royal Highness and your august Allies may long enjoy the satisfaction arising from your enlightened views and heroic achievements in the cause of suffering humanity, by seeing your dominions flourishing, your subjects happy, and the world at peace, is the devout and fervent prayer of your Royal Highness's antient and loyal University of Oxford.

Given at our House of Convocation, under our Common Seal, this thirteenth day of June, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and fourteen.

To which Address his Royal Highness was pleased to return the following most gracious answer:

"I receive with peculiar satisfaction in this place, and on this occasion, the renewal of those assurances of attachment and loyalty, which have been so frequently addressed to the throne by the University of Oxford.

"It is a splendid addition to the glorious events of this auspicious æra, that the great Sovereigns, whose personal exertions and example have so eminently contributed to the success of our common counsels, both in the prosecution of the war, and in the conclusion of peace, should have allowed themselves to forego for a while, the gratulations which await their return to their own dominions, previously to witness in this country, that ebullition of general joy, which the result of their magnanimity has spread throughout the nations of Europe.

"Amongst those of our institutions which have attracted the notice of my illustrious guests, none can deserve it more than the establishments which now surround me; formed by the wisdom and piety of our ancestors, for the cultivation of those liberal studies, by which a succession of able and enlightened men are trained for the service of the state, and the maintenance of its invaluable constitution.

"You have shewn, in the hour of danger, that those peaceful and sacred duties were not inconsistent with preparations for armed resistance against the efforts of that inordinate ambition, which threatened the destruction of all that was worth preserving in this favoured country.

"That crisis is happily past; the principles here inculcated have now triumphed; the recognition of moral duties, of social order, and legitimate authority, has pacified and united Europe.

"The presence of my august Allies, their moderation in the moment of victory, and the harmony which subsists between the restorers and the restored, are the best pledge of the duration of that peace, which is the reward of all our efforts and sacrifices. It will always be my earnest wish to consolidate and maintain it. May it long continue to diffuse over this ancient seat of learning and religion, the means of cultivating those arts and sciences which are its best and brightest ornament."

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT

WE, the Mayor, Bailiffs, and Commonalty of the City of Oxford, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with our humble congratulations upon your Royal Highness's arrival in this city, in company with your august Allies, the Sovereigns of Russia and Prussia, an event which forms a proud era in the history of this our ancient and loyal Corporation. Upon this occasion, Sir, our attention is naturally called to the course of recent transactions. We cannot forbear to hold in grateful recollection those wise, firm and vigorous counsels of your Royal Highness, which have led to the present successful issue of the most momentous contest in which this country was ever engaged, which, throughout the whole of your Royal Highness's Government, have uniformly inspired the bravery of your forces by sea and land, directed the resources, maintained the glory, and at length, under the Providence of God, achieved the security of this rich and populous Empire.

But, Sir, gratifying as is the retrospect of late achievements, we have yet also a higher source, if possible, for enjoyment, in the contemplation of the great blessing of peace, whereby, in conjunction with your Allies, you have terminated the doubtful chances of war. Whilst we have beheld with inexpressible delight the defeat of insatiable ambition, and the overthrow of a tyranny which almost annihilated the liberties of Continental Europe, whilst we participate in the rejoicings of those countries which are hailing the re-establishment of legitimate government, and the restoration of national independence, we cannot withhold from your Royal Highness our admiration of the true and exalted wisdom displayed in the grand features of our adjustment with France. If we may be permitted, upon this subject, to express with freedom the impression upon our minds, we should say, that in the late pacification your Royal Highness has united a due regard to the power and the interests of the Empire, with a frank and generous disinterestedness. In the voluntary restitution of conquests which no power on earth could have wrested from your dominion, your Royal Highness has given a noble example of all oblivion of hostile feeling, of magnanimous indifference to aggrandizement, and a pledge, the most sincere that can be, of having made peace in the true spirit of peace.

By this wise and moderate course your Royal Highness has attained the inestimable advantage of placing upon a solid and durable foundation the repose of Europe, at the same time also that you have still more increased the lustre of our national character.

Under these happy circumstances the loyal subjects of these realms, justly proud of their invaluable institutions, and devotedly attached to that patriotic line of Princes, under whose mild administration the country has reached an unexampled height of grandeur, whilst it has enjoyed without interruption the blessings of liberty, cannot but join in one universal wish, that your Royal Highness may long continue to administer the Government of a free and prosperous Empire; and that your Royal Highness, still emulating the example of our beloved and revered Monarch, may, like him, live in the hearts, and be regarded as the father of your people.

Given under the common seal of the City, this fourteenth day of June 1814.

To His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT.

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, and Freeholders, of the county of Oxford, beg leave to approach your Royal Highness with our most unfeigned expressions of duty and attachment to your Royal Person and Government.

We also humbly beg leave to offer to your Royal Highness, our heartfelt congratulations on the successful and glorious termination of the long and arduous contest in which we have been lately engaged, an event which we must attribute, under the blessings of Divine Providence, to the wise, vigorous, and determined measures adopted by our revered Sovereign your august Father, and persevered in by your Royal Highness, with equal wisdom and firmness; to the undaunted bravery and transcendent abilities of your naval and military commanders, to the faithful, unremitted, and valiant exertions of your fleets and armies, and to the cordial and spirited co-operation of all your people. And we do not hesitate to state with confidence, that your Royal Highness is justly entitled to the high satisfaction of reflecting, that you have not only asserted, protected, and secured the rights and honour of your own dominions, but also that you have contributed, in a very essential degree, by your example and support, to the independence, the honour, and the welfare of the whole civilized world.

We further beg leave to express to your Royal Highness our grateful acknowledgments for affording us an opportunity of expressing, personally, our high veneration and respect for those great and illustrious Sovereigns who have shared, with your Royal Highness, the merit and the glories of the late most important and splendid events, and who, after repelling from their own dominions the insults and injuries of an atrocious enemy, have carried their victorious arms into other countries for the laudable and generous purpose of rescuing them from the bondage of a despotic tyrant, and of conferring upon them the blessings of legitimate Government, security and peace.

Lastly, Sir, we humbly thank you for permitting to us the occasion of expressing our most sincere and warmest admiration of those brave and highly distinguished Generals of our august Allies, who, actuated like our own Generals, by the most ardent feelings of patriotism and duty, have, in defiance of every difficulty and danger, covered themselves with glory by a faithful execution of the high commands of their Sovereigns and of the urgent calls of mankind, and who by their splendid, beneficial, and stupendous achievements, have entitled themselves, not only to the high rewards of their own Sovereigns and countries, but also to the admiration, the praise, and the gratitude of every nation and of every age.

Signed in the name and on behalf of the Nobility, Gentry, Clergy, and Freeholders of the county of Oxford.

James King, High-Sheriff.

THE following Addresses have been presented to His Royal Highness the Prince Regent; which Addresses His Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously:

To His Royal Highness George Prince of Wales, REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble Address of the Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of Lanark.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's ever dutiful and loyal subjects, the Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of the Burgh of Lanark, beg leave, in unison with the universal sentiment of the United Kingdom, to offer to your Royal Highness our heartfelt congratulations on the glorious and happy result of the arduous contest in which Great Britain has been so long and so nobly engaged.

At a period of imminent and unexampled danger, at home and abroad, when irreligion and anarchy equally menaced the moral and political world, this free and happy country voluntarily took up arms in defence of your venerable Father, our beloved Monarch,—of our invaluable Constitution, in Church and State,—and of every thing near and dear to us as men, and as members of civilized society.

Under the blessing of "Him by whom Kings reign, and Princes decree justice,"—the wise, steady, and magnanimous councils of your Royal Father, and of his Ministers,—the unparalleled skill and bravery of his fleets and armies,—the zeal, alacrity and perseverance of the volunteer and militia forces, were not only the means of averting internal commotion, and of repelling foreign invasion, with all their concomitant horrors and atrocities, but by their powerful influence and operation, they have contributed to the salvation and deliverance, while they have excited the admiration, and acquired the gratitude of all Europe.

It is to us matter of peculiar congratulation, that the downfall of the Tyrant of France and of the world,—the restoration of the Bourbons to the throne of their ancestors,—of the ancient dynasties—of the legitimate Governments,—of the liberty and independence of Europe, and of the blessings of peace and plenty, should all have been realised under the auspices of your Royal Highness, and by the prosecution of those measures which had been adopted and acted upon by your Royal Parent. Our commiseration for His sufferings is commensurate to our unfeigned veneration and affection for his person, endeared to the country and to us, by his public and private virtues, while our attachment to his Government, maintained by your Royal Highness, is enhanced by the recollection of its wisdom, its energy, its perseverance, and its ultimate triumph.

While we embrace this opportunity of expressing our gratitude to those great and illustrious heroes who have vanquished all the enemies of our country by sea and by land, and have raised her naval and military renown to an unrivalled pitch of glory, we are led, at the same time, to express our regret for the loss, and to drop a tear of admiration over the memory of those virtuous and valiant men who have fallen in the service, and bled in the battles of their country. Their names will ever be dear, and their fame will for ever survive, to point out to future heroes the path of glory, and the reward of patriotism.

The privations, the losses, and sacrifices of the United Kingdom, for these last twenty years of arduous struggle for herself and for mankind, have indeed been amply rewarded, and crowned with a consummation glorious beyond example, and beyond the most sanguine of our recent hopes.

As there is no period in the history of the world more eventful than that which has distinguished the Regency of your Royal Highness, neither is there any era more important, more glorious, nor more brilliant.

Your Royal Father combated, and contributed to destroy the hydra of infidelity and anarchy which alarmed and convulsed the nations. Divine Providence held it in reserve for your Royal Highness, in conjunction with your illustrious and magnanimous Allies, to overthrow the most odious tyranny that ever oppressed and insulted mankind,—to restore to Kings and Princes the legitimate rule and hereditary sceptres of their ancestors,—and to the nations, freedom, independence, and peace.

Your Royal Highness, in the short period of your Regency, has already acquired enough of glory. We heartily pray, that you may now enjoy many years of happiness, amid the blessings of peace, prosperity, and plenty, and that you may live, as our aged Sovereign, your Father, has done, in the hearts and affections of a free, happy, and loyal people.

John Simpson, Provost.

Council Chamber, Lanark, May 7, 1814.

[Transmitted by Sir T. Riddell, Bart. and presented by Viscount Sidmouth.]

Unto His Royal Highness the PRINCE REGENT of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

The humble and dutiful Address of the Episcopal Clergy in Scotland.

May it please your Royal Highness,

WE, His Majesty's most dutiful, and loyal subjects, the Bishops of the Episcopal Church in Scotland, beg leave humbly to approach the Throne, and to offer to your Royal Highness the hearty congratulations of ourselves, and of all the clergy of our humble, though venerable church, on the glorious termination of that awful struggle in which the British empire has been so long engaged. It has been a struggle for every thing dear to civilized man,—for religion, liberty, and law, against atheism, despotism, and anarchy; and for the liberation of Europe from the most cruel oppression.

While we acknowledge with devout thankfulness, that this great deliverance hath been wrought by that omnipotent God, who "ruleth in the kingdoms of men, and giveth them to whomsoever He will," it affords us peculiar satisfaction to think, that the chief instruments employed to accomplish it, have been the wise and steady measures of His Majesty's councils so vigorously pursued by your Royal Highness; and the consummate skill of the commanders; and the prowess of the forces employed to carry these measures into effect.—By the example, which Britain thus exhibited to an admiring world, the other great powers of Europe were roused from what appeared to be a torpor almost unaccountable; and by the unanimity and vigour, which, in conjunction with your Royal Highness, these powers have since displayed in the common cause, the Tyrant, whose aim was to enslave all the surrounding nations, has been cast from his usurped throne, and through the moderation, combined with firmness, of the Allied Sovereigns, its ancient and legitimate Monarchy has been restored to that oppressed country, in which the volcano first burst forth, which has so long shaken all Europe to its centre.

Your Royal Highness is too well acquainted with the history of the dominions which you were born to render happy, not to be aware, that while we sincerely rejoice, in common with our fellow subjects, at the prospect which these events afford of a durable peace to the long harassed nations, we find in our ancient and well-known principles an additional ground of gratitude for the manner in which the arduous contest has been thus terminated. The measure of our joy would, indeed, be full, did we not, with due submission to that God "who ordereth all things for good to them that love and fear him," lament that our venerable and beloved Sovereign is still unable to enjoy the happiness which he would otherwise feel on the restoration of that peace which he so ardently desired, and on perceiving with what wisdom and vigour your Royal Highness hath, in his name and on his behalf, exercised the high authorities with which you are invested.

That the great God, "by whom Kings reign, and Princes decree justice," may be pleased, in his good appointed time, to restore His Majesty to your Royal Highness, to the rest of the Royal Family, and to his people, likewise his children; that he may afterwards call him, full of years, and rich in good works, from an earthly to a heavenly crown;—that your Royal Highness may thenceforth in your own right the sceptre of this Empire with the same ability with which you have hitherto swayed it in the right of your Royal Father, and that the latest posterity may look back with pride, if pride be at all made for man, to the reigns of George the Third and George the Fourth, is the earnest prayer of, may it please your Royal Highness, His Majesty's most faithful and obedient subjects, the Bishops and Clergy of the Episcopal Church in Scotland.

Signed, at our several places of residence, by us, the Bishops, for ourselves, and for the Clergy of our Communion.—June 4, 1814.

John Skinner, at Aberdeen; Andrew Macfarlane, in Inverness; Alexander Jolly, Fraserburgh; Daniel Sandford, Edinburgh; Patk. Torry, Peterhead; George Gleig, Stirling.
