Against Fiume, which is not to be considered as being infected with Cholera, no measure will be taken except in the case that the master of a vessel proceeding from that port reports that on board there are passengers from the above-mentioned towns or places. In such case a medical visit will take place on the port of entry and a sanitary surveillance of five days at the place of arrival.

Trieste, October 7, 1910.

Owing to the appearance of Cholera in Hungary, the Ministry of the Interior, in accord with the Ministry of Commerce and of Agriculture, has thought it proper to prohibit—until further notice—the entry and transit from Hungary of the following goods:—

(1) Used body-linen: old and worn clothes (personal effects), used bed-linen.

Whenever such articles are forwarded as luggage, or owing to change of domicile, they will be subjected on crossing the frontier to the special regulations prescribed by the sanitary police for their examination and treatment.

(2) Shreds and rags:—

From this prohibition are excepted:—

(a) Shreds and rags hydraulically pressed, shipped for wholesale commerce in iron-hooped bales.

(b) New shreddings proceeding directly from spinning, weaving, clothing and bleaching factories, artificial wool (shoddy) and cuttings from new paper.

The transit of the goods mentioned in 1 and 2 is, however, allowed if packed in such manner as to preclude all danger of contamination during the journey.

(3) Fresh fruits and vegetables, as also milk, cannot be detained at the frontier if it be shown, by means of certificates of origin issued by the proper Royal Hungarian Authorities, that they do not proceed from places infected with Cholera.

This is participated for instruction and guidance.

Fresh fruit and vegetables shall not be detained at the frontier if according to certificates of origin issued by the competent Italian Authorities it be proved that they do not proceed from districts infected with cholera.
