Privy Council Office, 8th August, 1958.

UNIVERSITIES OF OXFORD AND CAMBRIDGE ACT, 1923.

A Statute made by the Governing Body of Christ Church, in the University of Oxford, on the 25th July, 1958, has been submitted for the approval of Her Majesty in Council, and notice of its having been so submitted is published in accordance with the provisions of the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge Act, 1923.

Whitehall, August 8, 1958.

The following Address was presented to The QUEEN by the Lambeth Conference of Bishops on the 5th August, 1958:—

May it please Your Majesty,

As Chairman of this, the ninth, Lambeth Conference, I have the honour of presenting to Your Majesty this company of nearly 320 Archbishops and Bishops of the Anglican Communion. On their behalf I express our deep gratitude to Your Majesty for graciously consenting to receive us, and for doing so in spite of your recent period of indisposition. We are happy to know that Your Majesty is now recovered, and we pray that God will continue to preserve you in good health.

The Bishops here present come from all parts of the world, East and West: and for the first time we have had to limit their numbers for the better despatch of our business. We are diverse in race, colour and nationality. We live under very different political systems, many of them outside the British Commonwealth of which Your Majesty is Head. We represent fifteen separate national Churches, each with its own characteristics, its own powers of self-government, its own metropolitan jurisdiction. Yet in spite of these differences we are all united in one brotherhood, in one loyalty to Our Lord Jesus Christ, in the one Faith of His Holy Catholic Church.

In this Conference the first subject of our study is Holy Scripture. In the great ceremony of Your Majesty's Coronation, the Holy Bible was presented to you as "the most valuable thing that this world affords", with the words:

"Here is Wisdom: This is the royal law:

These are the lively Oracles of God."

By that truth the Church lives. But in the last century many causes have combined to make the Holy Bible less known and less esteemed than formerly. Now throughout Christendom there is in progress a rediscovery of the authority of Holy Scripture and of its message to mankind. Our chief desire in this Conference is to promote that rediscovery throughout the Church, since on it must be based every renewal of Church life and every advance towards Church Unity.

The goal of Church Unity is our second objective. Our progress towards it since the first Conference of 1867 may seem slow and chequered.

But we go forward, and the pace quickens yearly. We are considering important proposals from Ceylon, from North India and Pakistan and elsewhere; we are considering questions discussed between the Episcopal Churches and the Presbyterian Churches of England and Scotland; also between some of us and the Methodist Churches; but all in the setting of the imperious call of the Oecumenical Movement.

In that same setting we are considering how the Anglican Communion itself can more faithfully and effectively discharge its duty of witness to the Kingdom of God, meeting the ever increasing challenges and menaces of the secular world by increased understanding and co-operation throughout all its member Churches and by better use of its resources.

But the word of God and the life of the Church alike speak to and within a divided world. We must therefore consider in the light of the Gospel the causes of the conflicts between and within nations. It is the task of the Church to apply to them a ministry of reconciliation and that Gospel of peace which is the fruit of righteousness.

And since the graces of family life are so gravely threatened all over the world by the pressures of population, by the effects of an industrialized society and even by some of the well-intentioned activities of the Welfare State, we shall pay special attention to the means of securing under modern conditions that wholesome and happy family life without which no people can prosper.

We trust that God will so guide us that even in these five brief weeks we may do something to throw light on the path before us and to give help and encouragement to Anglicans and indeed to all Christian people in the great work to which we are called for the salvation of God's people. In all our work we are greatly encouraged by the knowledge that Your Majesty shares our faith, our trials and our hopes. Many of us can testify from our own experience to the great service to God and to His Church and thereby to the peace of the world which has been rendered by the visits paid in recent years by Your Majesty, Prince Philip, Her Majesty The Queen Mother, Princess Margaret and other members of the Royal Family to many parts of the world.

It is with hearts truly grateful for the example which Your Majesty, and the whole Royal Family, give to your own peoples and to all peoples, that we present this Address, praying that God may ever strengthen and uphold you in that high vocation to which, at your Coronation, you were dedicated.

To which Address Her Majesty was pleased to return the following gracious answer:—

My Lord Archbishop,

I thank you and the Archbishops and Bishops of the Anglican Communion now in Conference assembled for your loyal Address.

It is a great pleasure to me to welcome you all here, and to see again many Bishops whom I have met in their own dioceses during my visits to various parts of the world.

I am indeed proud that your Conference is being held in this mother Country from which in the course of history all the Churches of our Communion have sprung. Yet today we take equal pride in the knowledge that this is now a world wide family of Churches in which none is accounted greater than another. The British Commonwealth, of which I am the Head, is a free association of self-governing nations: the Anglican Communion presents the pattern of a free association of self-governing Churches, bound together by loyalty to our Faith and sustained by the common counsel of the Bishops in Conference.

You have reminded me that at my Coronation, I was presented with the Bible to keep me ever mindful of the Law and the Gospel of God. As I strive to study its teaching, I am encouraged to hear from you that throughout Christendom men and women are turning again to the authority of the Holy Scriptures, and to a new recognition of the goal of Church Unity. Seventy years ago the Lambeth Conference laid down as one of its principles that Church Unity must rest upon "The Holy Scriptures as being the rule and ultimate standard of faith". Since the Conference of 1948, real progress has been made towards reunion, and it is my earnest hope that your present Conference may help to bring more healing to the unhappy divisions among Christians, and so hasten the fulfilment of the divine prayer "that they all may be one".

It seems to me very fitting that you are also paying special attention to the subject of the family. The greatest asset of every nation is its number of happy Christian families. How right it is, therefore, that you should seek to promote the sanctity and integrity of family life, where the individual is loved and taught to love, and where the art of human relations is best learnt.

In the larger field of international relations, the Church has the difficult task of upholding Christian values and striving constantly for righteousness and reconciliation among the nations.

I pray that the blessing of Almighty God may rest upon your deliberations here, and that He may ever prosper the work of your several Churches done in His Name and for His Glory.
