THE Repairs and the fitting up of the Apartments of Versailles, requiring more Time than was at first supposed, it is now said the King will not go thither till about the Middle of next Month. We have Advice from Madrid, that the Count de Aguilar having fallen under the Displeasure of the King of Spain, had an Order sent to him to retire from Court within twenty four Hours, to his Government, which he not obeying readily, his Catholick Majesty ordered a Detachment of Guards to carry him to Corunna, where he is to be confined in Fort St. Antonio. The following Advices received by the Court relating to the Plague, have been communicated to the foreign Ministers.

The Duke de Roquelaure in his Letter of the 20th of April writes that all the Gevaudan continues in a good State of Health: He had Advices the 10th, that since the 1st none had died or fallen sick in any of the Places formerly infected: Nor had any been newly taken ill in the Sevenes or the Vivarais, except one Woman in a House of the Parish of Jonas; but that House standing separate from others, and all necessary Precautions being taken, it was hoped there would be no ill Consequences. At Alais the Quarantain was continued with good Effect; from the 2d to the 18th none had died or fallen sick, there remained in the Suburbs three Persons who had recovered, and they were to be put forthwith under Quarantain: All Diligence was used in Perfuming and Airing the Houses, and it was believed the Plague had wholly ceased there. None had newly fallen sick in the Comtat; and it was judged that if the Disinfection or Perfuming was performed there with proper Care and Regularity, any Relapse might be prevented. The Bishop of Alais writes the 17th, that no Accident had interrupted the Quarantain, and that the Disinfection of the Infirmary would be finished in a Fortnight. M. de Bernage in his of the 17th, 19th and 20th of April gives the same Account: Several Letters from Officers confirmed, that the Distemper was ceasing every where. The Marquess de Brancas writes, that the Accident which happened at Marseilles had not had ill Consequences. M. le Bret in his of the 15th of April relates, that the Father of the three Children who died at Marseilles, was also dead himself in the Lazaretto; but a Physician and Surgeon had made their Report, that it was of a Quinsy, and that having viewed and opened his Body, they had not discovered any Mark of Contagion. The Precaution that was taken to remove him out of the City into a separate House, was very proper however in all Events, having prevented Communication had the Distemper happened to be infectious.

CARTERET.

Whitehall, April 27, 1722.

Whereas on Thursday the Nineteenth Instant, about Nine of the Clock at Night, John Barrett, Gent. was assaulted by two Persons on the Backside of the New Church in the Strand, one a fat Man of low Stature in a light Coat and tied Wig, who held the said John Barrett whilst the other, a tall slender Man in black Cloathes, with Ruffles and a light bag Wig, his Lips by Mounlight appearing something larger than ordinary, did barbarously Stab him in his Body and left Arm, with an intent, as there is good Reason to believe, to Murder him: His Majesty, for the better Discovery of the Assassins, and for bringing them to condign Punishment, is graciously pleased to promise a Reward of One Hundred Pounds for each of them, so as they or either of them may be apprehended and convicted thereof; and is further pleased to promise His most gracious Pardon, with the like Reward, to either of the Accomplices who shall make such Discovery.
